

How-To: Register for e2Campus

Introduction

UNO uses E2Campus for emergency system notification. This system allows designated UNO personnel to send time-sensitive messages to the mobile phones and/or email of students, staff, and faculty. In the event of an emergency, UNO subscribers can get notified immediately of a situation such as bad weather, school closing, or any other emergencies, independently of geographical location or of the service provider.

- E2Campus is a 100% web-based software system, so no additional software or hardware is required, except for a web browser with an Internet connection to self-subscribe. The system enforces a strict spam policy which clearly prohibits unsolicited messages and E2Campus does not sell the contact information of their subscribers to third party marketers.

- Please note that all UNO active students, faculty, and staff receive alert notifications by email; however, registration is required to receive text notifications. In order to be notified by text, you need to create an account and complete a one-time short registration. During the process, you will receive a text message with a numeric validation code in order to validate the registration. You can also add up to two mobile numbers or a secondary email addresses, and this information can be updated at any time.

- Once registered, you can access your information by entering your user name and password.

Note: This information is independent of the username and password used for the UNO network, WebSTAR, Email, and Moodle systems. However, it is recommended that you use your UNO email address for your user name.
